AN Ex-CONSUL'S STORY.

AN EX-CONSUL'S STORY.

To the Editor of The Brooklyn Eagle.

A late United States Consul at one of the English inland ports, who is now a private resident of New-York, relates the following interesting story. He objects, for private reasons, to having his name published, but authorizes the writer to pubstantiate his statement, and, if necessary to refer to him, in his private capacity, any person seekings to reference. Deferring to his wishes, I hereby presents is statement in almost the exact language in which he gave it to me.

(2. M. Farner.

1.690 Third ave. New-York.

"On my last voyage home from England, some three years ago, in one of the Cunard steamers, I noticed one morning after a few days out of port, a young man hobbling about on the extreme difficulty and no little pain. He was well dressed and of exceedingly handsome countenance, but his limbs were somewhat emaciated and his face very asllow and bore the recession of long suffering. As he seemed to have no attendant or companion, he at once aftracted my armathies, and I went for amount of the foaming track which the steamer was making.

"Excuse me, my young friend." I said looking out on the shoulder, "you appear to be an intended on an ocean voyage; but if you require any assistance, I am a robust and locality man, and shall be glad to help you.

"You are very kind, he replied in awake voice, but I require no present aid beyond my cruiches, which enable me to pass from my stateroom up here to get the benefit of the sunshine and the sea breeze.

"You have been a great sufferer, no doubt," I said, 'and I mage that you have been a fired with that most troublesome.

OF PUBLIC INTEREST. Quacks, Adventurers and Imposters.

When the world was in its infancy, rocking in the cradle of superstition, so-called medical pretentious jugglers and quacks infested the world to its detriment. This state continued until education and the general dissemination of knowledge decimated their ranks. To-day, living in an at-mosphere of civilization, we are beset and surrounded by a mosphere of alventurers, charlatans and ignorant imposters whose excellent knowledge of human nature leads them to humbug the public in the most extraordinary and shameful manner, chief among which may be named stomach and liver appliances, and a large class of electric and magnetic hum-

These adventurers attempt to make the public believe that by the union of two antagonistic metals an electric current is producible; that electricity is generated by magnetizing a producible; that electricity is generated by magnetizing a piece of iron sufficiently to sway a compass. Thousands believe such stupid nonemene. Ask any electrician, specialist or scientist, and he will quickly inform you how great is the imposition. It is somewhat singular to be sleve that intelligent persons are misled by these stupid toys and charms, under the sentimental idea that "electricity is life." Electricity is a powerful restorative scent when produced and applied scientifically by an expert electrician, not otherwise.

Family remedies have been and still are an absolute necessity in the household. A vast proportion of the world's population is more or less inaccessible to medical practitioners, and this united with the necessities of others to provide and this united with the necessities of others to provide themselves with inexpensive yet reliable medicines, has created and encouraged the production of simple household specifics, to be employed in an emergency or in an urgent case until the arrival of the family physician. These statementabeing essentially true, the strongest possible protec-tion for the public is to have such medicines prepared by from for the public state of the skiful and conscientious pharmacists, educated in the science of medicine, rather than to accept worthless and in urious compounds or nostrums, put together by persons who are as ignorant of the first principles of Materia Medica as they are of therapeutics.

BENSON'S CAPCINE PLASTER is pre-eminently an article of extraordinary merit, and after a trial of ten years is pronounced to be the best family medicine for external use ever invented. They are founded on true medical skill, and will positively cure allments that ther active medicinal articles fall even to relieve. Without exception it is the safest neatest chanest and cheapest redicinal article ever compounded. Bensou's Capelne laster is a pharmaceutical preparation of the highest order t merit, endersed and recommended by OVER 5,000 PHYSICIANS, PHARMACISTS, DRUGGISTS AND CHEMISTS theing more effective than and superior to any other Porons ster, Limmont, Medicated Oil, Salve, Ointment or Lotton, s in no eruse a nostrum or patent medicine. When suffering many allment for which external remedies are useful one d will convince the most skeptical of the superior merit of ison's Capetne Plaster. The genuine have the word C.A.P.C.I.N.E cut in the centre of the plaster, without which they are spurious. Any phase macist or druggist will supply you. Price, 25 cents.
